Perhaps MĂ¼ller's best-known work, the story portrays four young people living in a totalitarian police state in Communist Romania, ending with their emigration to Germany. The narrator is an unidentified young woman belonging to the ethnic German minority. MĂ¼ller said the novel was written “in memory of my Romanian friends who were killed under the Ceauşescu regime”. Herta MĂ¼ller's transcendent The Land of Green Plums tells the story of four young people living in a Soviet-imposed totalitarian police state in Romania. The four have left their respective impoverished provinces in search of better opportunity in the city. The novel documents their struggles to survive through the terrible conditions of Romania and because of the laws and persecution leveled upon Romania by the Soviets, as well as the opportunity (or, really, lack thereof) that drives them. At its core, though, The Land of Green Plums is about the evils of totalitarianism (and communism, re
