I would say that this book takes a multidisciplinary approach to the study of death and dying, presenting a comprehensive review of key topics and issues in the field. The authors manage to cover the personal, social, cultural, legal, philosophical, spiritual, and ethical issues related to death and dying against the backdrop of empirical research and theory in the field. Further, it went beyond the psychological issues of dying and bereavement, [and] provided a context for the ways in which people die and mourn and the consequences of dying, death, and loss to others. About the Author. Books on death and bereavement do not generally make lively bedside reading. The book Death, Dying, and Bereavement is a superb collection of articles, contributed by doctors, nurses, social. Method: Bereavement life review therapy was provided for 20 bereaved Hawaiian Americans. In the first session, subjects reviewed memories of the deceased with a therapist, who recorded their narratives and collected them into a personal history book. During the second session, subjects discussed the contents of this book. Caregivers completed the Functional Assessment Chronic Illness Therapy-Spiritual (FACIT-Sp) questionnaire and the Beck Depression Inventory, Second Edition (BDI-II) pre- and post-intervention.
